

The Janesville Daily Gazette.

VOLUME 27

The house will be run by Kentucky bourbon this season.

When the president and congress both get after the trade dollar it is bound to go.

If much more is said to advertise the American pig, he will be the proudest animal in the country.

The government of the United States is the only government on earth that has more money than it knows what to do with.

Congress is making an attack on Mormonism. With Mormonism over two thousand miles away, congress is quite brave.

Patti gets as much for one night as a congressman does for one year, and in that proportion is the worth on the side of the pretty little Patti.

Mr. Carlisle can't take the plum in '84. No speaker but one was ever elected president, and that was a blunder of which the people repented.

Mr. Coulking should not feel provoked over Mr. Blaine's plan. It is a greater piece of work than the New York statesman ever thought of doing.

Women can now vote in Oregon. If they don't make a better use of the ballot in that state than the women of Utah do, they had better not vote.

Anna Dickinson says she has left the stage forever. The stage will now proceed to give her a vote of thanks. (Won't Langtry please be as wise as Dickinson?)

There will be a good many who will feel glad that Jay Hubbell has gone to Nebraska to raise stock. He can probably do that business with more credit to himself than run a republican campaign.

If Mr. Carlisle can keep his party in congress steady this session, he will be a Moses to the democracy. Beside that he will have achieved what other democratic speakers have utterly failed to do.

General Grant has been compelled to deny for himself and his wife, that they have become spiritualists. They are still following the teaching of the Rev. Dr. J. P. Newman, but where that will take them, is not definitely known.

Those who are attacking Mr. Blaine's plan should go slow. A scheme that will make whiskey manufacturers pay the entire state taxes of all the states and have a handsome surplus left for school purposes, is not a plan to be treated with contempt.

The women of Utah, who are allowed to vote, are over enthusiastic for the Mormon church. They think polygamy a divine institution, rather enjoy it, and therefore vote for it. Governor Murray thinks the ballot should be taken from them.

Men are not always consistent. Congressman Tom Ochiltree, of Texas, who can get farther from the truth than any man in Texas, wouldn't vote for ex-Speaker Kiefer, probably because he thought General Kiefer's political morals were not good enough. A man who kept crooked accounts while United States marshal, should not be so particular about the political morals of other men.

"Our Little Men and Women" is the title of a book just published by D. Lothrop & Co., Boston. It is one of the handsomest books for children published this year. Good reading is one of the best helps to the formation of right character. Of few great publishing houses can it be affirmed, as of Lothrop & Co., that in reading for young or old, they publish only the best. Among juvenile magazines, nothing was ever offered to the little boys and girls who are just entering the borderland of the great realm of book knowledge, which is at all comparable with that delight of the nursery, Little Men and Women, which just hits the needs of children too young for Wide Awake, and too old for Babyland. With its songs, stories, and pictures, its heavy white paper, and its handsome large type, no wonder that it fascinates the juveniles. The bound volume for 1883 is now ready in a handsome binding.

THE STATE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY. The annual meeting of the state agricultural society was held at Madison on the 5th instant. The financial report of Mr. Cyrus Miner, treasurer of the society, was presented, and is herewith given:

Balance from 1882.....$ 176 00
From the state.....3,000 00
From local.....1,000 00
From the sale of tickets.....1,000 00
Total.....$5,176 00

Disbursements.....$2,500 00
Balance on hand.....$2,676 00

The report shows the society to be in very good condition—much better than it was last year. Another exhibition equally as successful as that of last September, will place the society in excellent condition.

ARTHUR AND GRESHAM. It is the opinion of the Gazette that one of the strongest tickets that the republicans could place in the field next year is that of Arthur and Gresham. There are some pretty strong reasons why that ticket may be considered especially a strong one. The two states, which above all other states are considered doubtful, are New York and Indiana. Without the former it is hardly probable that the republicans will carry the election, although there is a possibility that they can do it. The loss of both states would make it impossible for the republicans to elect a president.

As we said a few days ago, the nomination of President Arthur would make New York reasonably secure to the republicans. The tremendous majority last year against Folger for governor, should not be taken as a measurement of the strength of the president in that state. He is popular in that state, and that popularity has largely increased during the past year. His administration has been so thoroughly fair, judicious and reformatory, that the opposition are prevented from making any attack on him with their mud machines. With this fact in view, and the further fact that New York is his home, it seems clear that his advantage in that state over that of any other republican who could be nominated, are sufficient reasons for a prediction that he would undoubtedly carry the state and thus make sure the election of a republican president.

As to Postmaster General Gresham there is no doubt as to his fitness for the second place on the republican ticket. The political morality that General Gresham carries with him, is that which commands itself to the country. He is an able man, and with that ability, is unflinching honesty. His nomination would give Indiana to the republicans. There could be no mistake about that. No plan the democrats could adopt to carry that state would succeed. General Gresham's personal strength and his good name would make it an impossibility for the democrats to rob the republicans of Indiana.

SOME POINTS IN THE MESSAGE. There are some suggestions in President Arthur's annual message which are well worth a special notice because it points to the policy which the administration will pursue relative to some very important questions. One of his recommendations is that some measure of "efficient character" should be taken to prevent this country from being taken as a dumping ground for the paupers, rogues and other social outcasts of European states. It would be a good thing for the imported paupers and rogues, and a still better thing for the people of this country, if congress would enact some law which would put an end to this dangerous business.

The president calls attention to the fact—particulars of which were published in the Gazette some days ago—that the Chinese were evading the immigration law, and were sending to this country a good deal of the trash that China wants to get rid of.

The president takes a decided stand against the postal telegraph system, mainly for the reason that it would require an enormous increase in the civil service list, and would not be a source of profit to the country. If England can make postal telegraph pay, and not only pay well, but make the system especially beneficial to the public, why can't the United States do as much? It must be repeated here what has been said before, that the postal system of the country is far behind the system in England, which is a marvel of perfection under the management of the blind postmaster general, Mr. Fawcett.

President Arthur, as well as the public generally, is becoming disgusted with the policy of fooling with the Mormons. He does not see any substantial promise toward the abolition of polygamy, and for that reason he favors the appointment of a commission, which shall have the entire political control of the territory, and by this means wipe out the polygamous feature of Mormonism.

This country will be glad to see that the president soundly endorses the American pig. He says he extended a friendly invitation to the German government to send experts to this country to examine the hog, but they declined. The president has appointed a commission to examine the hog question, and to ascertain why the American hog should turn Bismarck's stomach.

These are the chief points in the message, and are the only ones that will likely provoke much discussion.
